

Generous HeART

Jeffrey Owen Hanson, a 15-year-old, visually-impaired artist, recently presented an art show at Bishop-McCann to benefit the new Lisa Barth Chapel at Children's Mercy Hospital. Jeff sold 118 original paintings at this event, hosted by Dan Nilsen. He then presented a check to staff members of Children's Mercy Hospitals and Clinics at a party given by his parents, Julie and Hal Hanson, at their home in Overland Park. Giving is nothing new to Jeff. Through his artwork, he has generated gifts totaling more than $125,000 to 12 charities around the world. Jeff's mission is to help create kinder communities, more compassionate nations and a better world for all.

Artist Jeff Hanson and Dan Nilsen, host

Shel Bee

Dane Sommer and Bradley Leech, Children's Mercy Hospitals and Clinics; Jeff Hanson and Amy Leonard, Children's Mercy Hospitals and Clinics

Kevin Barth, Julie Hanson, Jeff Hanson, and Dr. Trudi Grin

Jeff Hanson with Diane and Randy Coble in front of their new painting, Colors of Kula

Scott Cook, Merrily Jackson and Dan Nilsen, event host

Vicky and Tim Frets, Kara and Matt Kersten and Bette Mathison

Hal Hanson, Jeff Hanson, artist; and Julie Hanson

Jeff Hanson and Danny O'Neill

Generous HeART show guests

Heather Swanson, Jeff Hanson, Julie Hanson, Kim Witt, and Andiswa Nyovone

